Quality Satisfaction / Manufacturing component parts and export

■ Product Design and Development Capabilities

At Kang Han Corporation we can develop our own design for you when you want us to develop something new. We can also make a large variety of components and even complete assemblies according to your own designs and specifications. We can manufacture the components ourselves in Korea or source them elsewhere in East Asia to meet your quality and cost requirements.

■ Experienced in International Business with America and Europe

Many Asian manufacturers have communication problems with their American and European customers, but from consumer products to industrial components Kang Han Corporation has the experience to handle export & import projects efficiently.

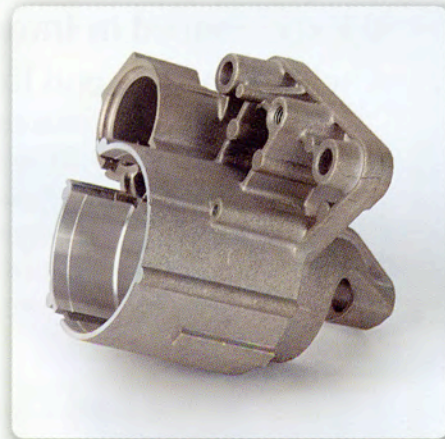

■ Various Languages Available

Kang Han Corporation serves customers and suppliers in English, Chinese, Japanese, and of course Korean.

Our own manufacturing plants plus trusted sources in East Asia
Kang Han Corporation has its own manufacturing plants in South Korea, so we can control quality and delivery and work with our customers as products are developed and manufactured. We have developed trusted sources in East Asia for raw materials. Foreign sourcing of quality products at competitive costs is not easy, as we have learned ourselves! You can benefit from our experience by using Kang Han as a single source for your overseas purchases.
